

August 16, 2006

For: Immediate Release

Re: Celebrity Divorce Attorneys Release
Revised Edition of Prenuptial Book

Contact: Cherie Kerr
714 550-9900

CELEBRITY DIVORCE ATTORNEYS RELEASE REVISED EDITION
OF PRENUPTIAL AGREEMENT BOOK

New Version Includes Domestic Partnership Information and Fascinating Prenuptial Clauses of the Rich, Famous and Eccentric

Los Angeles, CA—Celebrity attorneys, Scott Weston and Robert Nachshin, celebrity divorce attorneys, best known for their precedent-setting win in the Barry Bonds prenuptial case, announced today that they have issued a second edition of I Do, You Do...But Just Sign Here: A Quick and Easy Guide to Cohabitation, Prenuptial and Postnuptial Agreements (ExecuPro Press), according to Scott Weston, partner at Nachshin & Weston in West Los Angeles.

The book has served as a comprehensive, layperson's guide in helping those who live together, who are contemplating marriage or who have been married, understand the intricacies of marital agreements. The new version includes the most up-to-date information on domestic partnerships and what individuals entering into those arrangements should know. "Domestic partnerships are viewed similarly to marital partnerships," Weston explains, "However, many people entering into them don't realize the serious legal consequences if and when those partnerships dissolve. It's important that such couples protect their interests and assets."

In the new edition, without naming names, authors Nachshin & Weston also share some of the outlandish clauses many of the rich, famous and eccentric couples insist upon in their agreements. "Not all the stipulations we share with the reader in this new book chapter are from our clients exclusively," Weston says, "they have come to us from other sources as well." Weston says readers of the book's first edition, including media sources, had queried both Weston and Nachshin repeatedly, asking for such information.

Family Law Specialists and LA Superlawyers, Scott Weston and Robert Nachshin, represent celebrities and high net worth type individuals in sports, music, film and television. Their client roster includes rapper Snoop Dog (Calvin Brodeus), Walt Disney Corporation's CEO, Robert Iger, pop idol singer/actor David Cassidy, screenwriter and author Terry McMillan, welterweight champ, Oscar de la Hoya, Alana Stewart and Sheree Smith, former wives of Rod Stewart and Will Smith, respectively; the late country legend Buck Owens, baseball greats Gary Sheffield and Bret Saberhagen, among others.

The book is now available at all major bookstore outlets including Barnes & Noble, Borders and Amazon.com.

For more information on Robert Nachshin and Scott Weston, visit www.nwdivorce.com.